Week 1	Significance of Creation to Theism	Memorize Genesis 1:1 and 1:3. Read Job chapters 1-3, 27-31, 38-42 and Psalm 104. From Job 28 and 38-41, type answers to the questions: What are five things mankind can know or do? What are five things mankind cannot know or do? Watch two hours of videos from Answers in Genesis.
Week 2	Presupposition: Scientific Naturalism	Memorize Job 28:28 and Ecclesiastes 1:2. Review the other verses and the class notes. Read Ecclesiastes and type out twelve vanities. Listen to Franz Joseph Haydn, The Creation .
Week 3	Presupposition: Progress	Memorize Hebrews 11:3, and review verses and notes. Select and read 60 pp. in The New Answers Book : Summarize two chapters in five typed sentences. Be prepared to present one chapter in class.
Week 4	The Doctrine of Creation & Fall	Memorize Romans 5:12, and review verses and notes. Select and read 60 pp. in The New Answers Book : Summarize two chapters in five typed sentences. Be prepared to present one chapter in class.
Week 5	The Great Flood	Review the memory verses and notes. Listen to Sermon Audio on the Scopes Trial. Read Olasky & Perry, Monkey Business , chs. 1-7, 17-20: Collect ten posies with proper citation. Then read the speeches in appendices C and D. For each speech, write a sentence of pros and cons.
Fall Break
Week 6	Geology	Review the memory verses and notes. Read Olasky & Perry, Monkey Business , chs. 14-16. Watch Inherit the Wind with a discerning adult. Write an essay comparing the film to the actual trial.
Week 7	Paleontology	Review the memory verses and notes. Read Olasky & Perry, Monkey Business , chs. 21-22. Watch the Intelligent Design video Darwin's Dilemma . Read Gould, "Impeaching a Self-Imposed Judge." Read Johnson, "Response to Gould." Write an essay on the creation/evolution debate.

Week 8	Biology	Review the memory verses and notes. Read Wells, "Survival of the Fakest." Read Science, Evolution, Creationism : Write an essay on three critical areas of debate. Use any of the resources in this course.
Week 9	Theistic Evolution	Review the notes and the memory verses for a final exam. Read Poythress, Christian Interpretations of Genesis 1 : Summarize each interpretation in a sentence. Watch the following Intelligent Design videos: Unlocking the Mystery of Life The Privileged Planet Read Meyer, "Intelligent Design Is Not Creationism." Write a paragraph on whether ID is creationism.
Week 10	Darwinists, ID, and the Creationists	Final Exam Read Richardson, Peace Child .

Winter – The Doctrine of the Bible

Week	Topic	Assignment
Week 1	Revelation	Memorize Deuteronomy 29:29 and Psalm 119:18. Read Plummer, 40 Questions , chs. 1-4: For each question, provide a paragraph answer.
Week 2	Prophecy	Memorize 2 Peter 1:21 and review other verses. Read Psalm 119 out loud. Read Luther's preface to his German writings. Read David Powlison, "Suffering and Psalm 119." Read Psalm 119 out loud again: Write an essay on how your perspective changed. Include the three themes and five Psalm 119 quotes.
Week 3	Inspiration	Memorize 2 Timothy 3:16-17 and review other verses. Read the tract M'Cheyne's Daily Bible Readings : Prayerfully consider reading the Bible for yourself. Reading four chapters per day finishes in one year. Watch A Man for All Seasons with a discerning adult: What kind of man is Henry VIII? Thomas More? Read Bragg, William Tyndale : What kind of man is Tyndale? Thomas More? Retell the story of Tyndale in 400 +/- 10 words.
Christmas Break
Week 4	Authority	Memorize Luke 16:17, and review other verses. Read Bierle, Surprised by Faith , chs. 1-3: Write an essay on the truthfulness of the Bible.
Week 5	Canonization: The Jewish Canon	Memorize Matthew 24:35, and review other verses. Read Bierle, Surprised by Faith , chs. 4-6: Write a personal reflection on your own faith.
Week 6	Canonization: The Christian Canon	Review the memory verses. Prayerfully read Plummer, 40 Questions , ch. 12. Make a creative, colorful poster of the biblical canon: Artistically represent the OT/NT structure and order. Posters are assessed for clarity, ideas, and attraction.
Week 7	Transmission	Review the memory verses. Make papyrus in class using a water and a rolling pin. Read Plummer, 40 Questions , chs. 5-7: Collect seven posies with proper citation. Copy by hand onto the papyrus a chapter from Paul: Bring your Bible into class to check accuracy. A prize is given for a copy with no errors.
Week 8	Translation	Review the memory verses. Read Swaim, "God's English" on the KJV Bible. Read Ryken, Choosing a Bible . Read and compare your copied chapter in three versions: Write an essay on three significant differences.

Week 9 Interpretation

Review the notes and the memory verses for a final exam.

Read Plummer, 40 Questions, chs. 8-11, 21:

Collect seven posies with proper citation.

Read LRI, Dig and Discover Hermeneutical Principles:

Type twenty questions from your copied chapter.

Extra Credit: From 40 Questions, chapters 22-35:

Read and summarize three chapters of your choice.

Extra Credit: Try out five resources in chapter thirteen.

Week 10 Application

Final Exam

Read Harris & Harris, Do Hard Things:

Collect twelve posies.

Spring – Work as Vocation

Week	Topic	Assignment
Week 1	Vocation and a Serious Mindset	Memorize John 5:17b and John 17:4. Men: Read Ryle, Thoughts for Young Men . Women: Read Elliot, Let Me Be a Woman , chs. 1-22. Before reading, pray, “Lord, stir me and direct me!” Write an essay about taking your calling seriously.
Week 2	Work in Redemptive History	Memorize Genesis 1:28 and review other verses. Read Traeger & Gilbert, Gospel at Work , Intro, chs. 1-3: Collect seven posies with proper citation. Read Appendix 2 and type the bold-print sentences.
Week 3	A Goal of Work – Provision	Memorize 2 Thessalonians 3:10b and review other verses. Read Traeger & Gilbert, Gospel at Work , chs. 5, 11: Read and summarize another chapter to present. Read the conclusion and define success in a sentence. Read Hummel, Tyranny of the Urgent : Type out and answer the questions on page five. Type out and answer three other questions (pp. 6-7).
Week 4	A Goal of Work – Giving	Memorize Ephesians 4:28 and review other verses. Read the book of Proverbs: List the references on work, diligence, and laziness. With twelve verses, make a poster against laziness: Posters are assessed for clarity, ideas, and attraction.
Week 5	A Goal of Work – Independence for the Glory of God	Memorize Colossians 3:23 and review other verses. Read Elliot, Shadow of the Almighty , chs. 1-17: Do not forget—always read the preface and prologue.
	Easter Break (varies)
Week 6	Finding God’s Will	Review the memory verses. Read Elliot, Shadow of the Almighty , chs. 18-22. Conduct the three interviews, according to the handout: Businessman, employee, and homemaker.
Week 7	Planning and Setbacks	Review the memory verses. Read Piper, Risk Is Right . Finish Elliot, Shadow of the Almighty : From Elliot’s life, write three lessons about pursuits. Include three quotes from Piper’s book.
Week 8	Art in Work	Review the memory verses. Read Schaeffer, Art and the Bible : Collect five posies with proper citation. Write a report on work based on the interviews: Read the interviews conducted by fellow students. Summarize in an essay the data and your conclusions.

Week 9 Hospitality in Work

Review the notes and the memory verses for a final exam.

Read Strauch, The Hospitality Commands:

Ask your parents about their vocation and yours.

Write a lengthy essay about your possible vocation:

Describe artistic gifts you have within your vocation.

Explain three hospitable uses of your gifts.

Explain how they glorify God.

Week 10 Sabbath Rest

Final Exam

What is your summer plan in light of your vocations?

Bibliography – Creation

Answers in Genesis. The Foundations DVD Series.

This DVD series has twelve half-hour lectures by Ken Ham, the popular speaker and founder of Answers in Genesis. These lectures were filmed recently, but resemble those filmed years ago at Cedarville University. Students will choose four lectures to watch, either individually or with other classmates. The twelve-set DVD package does not need to be purchased, but can be borrowed from the church library.

Gould, Stephen Jay Gould. “Impeaching a Self-Imposed Judge.” Scientific American (July 1992).

This article is Gould’s response to Phillip Johnson’s bestseller Darwin on Trial. While touching on a couple issues, the response is mainly ad hominem and based on the supposed differences between lawyers and scientists in how they approach matters of truth.

Ham, Ken, ed. The New Answers Book: Over 25 Questions on Creation/Evolution and the Bible. Green Forest, AR: Master Books, 2006.

This book is the first in a series from Answers in Genesis, which presents possible biblical answers for hard questions about creation and evolution. The word “possible” is used purposefully. We do not always know how the Bible and science square up; however, it is helpful to have possible solutions. Students are not required to obtain all four books; but if parents are interested, they can purchase the entire set: The New Answers Book Boxed Set.

Haydn, Franz Joseph. The Creation.

This oratorio draws from Genesis, the Psalms, and Milton’s Paradise Lost to depict the Beginning. Students may purchase this CD or view a performance online (e.g. YouTube). The entire performance typically lasts about an hour and three quarters long.

Alternate Online Edition: The Creation. Legal and free, and in English.

Illustra Media. The Intelligent Design Collection.

This set of three videos, starring John Rhys-Davies, presents the origin of the universe from the perspective of Intelligent Design: Darwin’s Dilemma, The Privileged Planet, and Unlocking the Mystery of Life. Students should be aware that the Intelligent Design approach often starts by presenting a strong case for evolution, before seeking a refutation on scientific grounds. In using science and not the Bible to refute evolution, these videos give students a different experience than the Answers in Genesis material. This set does not need to be purchased, but can be borrowed from the academy library.

Inherit the Wind. DVD

Based on a play by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, this erroneous film caricatures the Scopes Trial of 1925. As a very insidious attack on Christianity, it should be viewed along with a mature Christian and then discussed. Students will learn of its historical errors by first reading the true history of the Scopes Trial in Summer for the Gods. This video should not be purchased, but should be rented online or through some other video outlet.

Johnson, Phillip E. “Response to Gould.”

As the title says, Johnson is here responding to Gould’s response. Overall, the direct interchange allows students to hear firsthand the two sides speak for themselves.

Meyer, Stephen C. “Intelligent Design is not Creationism.” The Daily Telegraph (London), 9 February 2006.

This short article introduces Meyer’s case for intelligent design as a scientific inference from biology. Because intelligent design arguments do not invoke the authority of the Bible, they differ substantially from creationism.

National Academy of Sciences and Institute of Medicine of the National Academies. Science, Evolution, and Creationism. Washington DC: The National Academies Press, 2008.

This short book is a secular guide for public school teachers. It guides them in teaching evolution and handling creationism. Reading this book will give students an insider’s look at how evolutionists think and strategize. (For a refutation of an earlier guide, see Jonathan Safarti, Refuting Evolution: A Response to the National Academy of Sciences’ Teaching About Evolution and the Nature of Science.)

(cont’d)

Olasky, Marvin and Perry, John. Monkey Business: The True Story of the Scopes Trial. Nashville: Broadman & Holman, 2005.

This journalistic retelling of the Scopes Trial starts with Dayton's economic woes and stretches to the current intelligent design movement. This book uses the excellent study by Edward Larsen in its retelling. Although this book is not as elegant as the Pulitzer-prize winning book by Larson, it is more accessible. Students struggled to catch the story line of the Larson book. The book also includes the history of the Intelligent Design movement—a presentation definitely simpler than Meyer's article!

Poythress, Vern S. Christian Interpretations of Genesis 1. Christian Answers to Hard Questions. Philadelphia: Westminster Seminary Press; Phillipsburg, NJ: P&R Publishing, 2013.

The author summarizes the various interpretations of Genesis chapter one that are described fully in his book Redeeming Science: A God-Centered Approach (2006).

Richardson, Don. Peace Child: An Unforgettable Story of Primitive Jungle Treachery in the 20th Century. 4th ed. Grand Rapids: Baker, Bethany House, 1976, 2005.

This groundbreaking missionary book shows that so-called Stone Age men are like us, in need of Christ, and can come to Christ for salvation. This documented case of effective communication also shows that there is no evolutionary gap between modern man and his so-called ancestors.

Wells, Jonathan. "Survival of the Fakest," The American Spectator (December 2000 / January 2001).

This short article, written by a Berkeley Ph.D. in biology, describes how many of the popular "proofs" for evolution lack scientific rigor.

Bibliography – Bible

Bierle, Donald A. Surprised by Faith: A Skeptic Discovers More to Life Than What We Can See, Touch, and Measure. 3rd ed. Minnetonka, MN: FaithSearch International, 1992, 2003, 2012.

This apologetic work is a rational defense of the faith, including the Bible and the deity of Christ. The facts presented in this book should convince sincere students about the historical reliability of the Bible. The book also gives students the opportunity to reflect on where their faith is at this season of life.

Note: Many used copies are available, but please obtain the third edition.

Bragg, Melvyn. William Tyndale: A Very Brief History. London: Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge [SPCK], 2017.

Although sketchy by nature and random in details, the book is engaging and excited about Tyndale's work. The author's appreciation of Tyndale is largely due to his cultural contribution to the English language.

Harris, Alex and Brett Harris. Do Hard Things: A Teenage Rebellion against Low Expectations. Colorado Springs: Multnomah, 2008, 2013.

Written by two teenage twins, this book is an exhortation to other teens for ambitious initiative in the Lord. This book works great as an introduction to the spring term on work, and provides excellent motivation for students to keep pushing ahead through the remaining school year. In Theology IV, we plan to examine the Harris family and look more closely at what may be wrong with pushing teenagers into early leadership positions.

Leadership Resources International. Dig and Discover Hermeneutical Principles: The Core Principles. 3rd ed. Palos Heights, IL: Leadership Resources International, 2018.

Alternate Online Edition: Dig and Discover Hermeneutical Principles. The ministry encourages Americans to purchase the hardcover booklets as ministry support.

Luther, Martin. Preface to the Wittenberg Edition of Luther's German Writings. In Timothy F. Lull, ed., Martin Luther's Basic Theological Writings (Minneapolis, MN: Fortress, 1989): 63-68.

Luther uses three elements from Psalm 119 to define a theologian: prayer, meditation, and trial.

Note: Due to possible copyright restrictions, students may need to share the available copy.

Make Your Own Papyrus. Veritas Press (item #183500)

This kit contains real papyrus reeds—all that is needed is a rolling pin and water!

Note: The academy plans to provide each student with a kit.

A Man for All Seasons. DVD (1966)

Originally a play, this award-winning film portrays Thomas More and Henry VIII in a struggle of conscience. Used as historical backdrop for William Tyndale, it is also helpful for students to see how history is twisted. The film portrays More as perfectly rigid and true to his own principles (not God's?), but is it accurate? The book about Tyndale portrays More as increasingly radical in his opposition to Tyndale, but is it accurate?

M'Cheyne, Robert Murray. M'Cheyne's Daily Bible Readings. Reprint [tract], Pensacola, FL: Chapel Library, n.d.

This tract, written years ago by a godly Scottish minister, simply contains a plan for reading the Bible in a year.

Note: Students receive this plan before the New Year, when a yearly systematic Bible reading would begin.

Plummer, Robert L. 40 Questions about Interpreting the Bible. 40 Questions & Answers Series. Grand Rapids: Kregel Academic, 2010.

This book is much more engaging, succinct, and dense with details than the The Origin of the Bible book.

Powlison, David. "Suffering and Psalm 119." Journal of Biblical Counseling 22 (Fall 2004): 2-16.

Contrary to popular opinion, Psalm 119 (the longest chapter in the Bible) is not a dull, one-dimensional poem about the word of God. It models a close relationship with God through His word and prayer in the context of intense persecution. This article describes the author's personal experience in seeing deeper and deeper layers in this large psalm. Very helpful article for encouraging a closer, more searching read of this grandest of all psalms!

Ryken, Leland. Choosing a Bible: Understanding Bible Translation Differences. Wheaton, IL: Crossway, 2005.

Ryken worked on the Translation Oversight Committee of the English Standard Version (published by Crossway). He presents a very opinionated argument for the word-to-word translation; however, his forcefulness will help students to see more clearly the major differences involved in Bible translation.

Alternate Edition: Ryken, Leland. Bible Translation Differences. Wheaton, IL: Crossway, 2004.

Bibliography – Work

Elliot, Elisabeth. Let Me Be a Woman. Wheaton, IL: Tyndale House, 1976.

Elliot wrote these essays for her grown daughter Valerie. Issues include the meaning of femininity and marriage.

Note: Only the young women will read this book.

Elliot, Elisabeth. Shadow of the Almighty: The Life & Testament of Jim Elliot. New York: Harper & Brothers, 1958.

Elliot wrote this biography from the journal and letters of her martyred, missionary husband Jim Elliot. The youthful and earnest Jim Elliot provides a model for young people, especially young men, to have faith and courage in Christ. The fact that this book was written by his young wife adds a helpful woman's perspective to this joint missionary endeavor.

Hummel, Charles E. The Tyranny of the Urgent. Ed. Eddie Broussard. Online Resource.

This little booklet is a great call to prioritize the important tasks over the urgent tasks. Because it uses the life of Jesus as its model, the booklet also serves a role in evangelism.

Note: Copies of this booklet may be obtainable through the church bookstore.

Booklet Edition: Hummel, Charles E. The Tyranny of the Urgent. Rev. ed. Downers Grove, IL: InterVarsity, 1967, 1994.

Piper, John. Risk Is Right: Better to Lose Your Life Than to Waste It. Wheaton, IL: Crossway, 2013.

This little book is a strong biblical challenge for all of us to risk our current safety for the eternal good of others and the glory of God. As a book, it is a revised version of one chapter from Don't Waste Your Life, with added material like the following excellent quote from Dietrich Bonhoeffer: "To delay or fail to make decisions may be more sinful than to make wrong decisions out of faith and love."

Ryle, J. C. Thoughts for Young Men. Reprint, Carlisle, PA: Banner of Truth Trust, 2015 [1888].

Anglican bishop J. C. Ryle was the laboring man's minister in the late 1800s, and his writings are still as engaging and blood-earnest as they were then. Written especially for young men, the book will also challenge the heart of young women to follow the Lord wholeheartedly, and to value a man according to his godly character.

Note: Only the young men will read this book.

Schaeffer, Francis A. Art and the Bible: Two Essays. Foreword by Michael Card. IVP Classics. Downers Grove, IL: InterVarsity Press, 2006 [1973].

Francis Schaeffer and his wife Edith highly appreciated an artistic touch to real life. In this little book, Schaeffer defends from the Bible the value and place of art in our lives, including music.

Strauch, Alexander. The Hospitality Commands: Building Loving Christian Community, Building Bridges to Friends and Neighbors. Littleton, CO: Lewis & Roth, 1993.

Pastor Strauch offers an encouraging perspective on hospitality and its role in the church and evangelism. Teens should see that their gifts are for the benefit of others, both in the context of the gospel and the church.

Traeger, Sebastian, and Gilbert, Greg. The Gospel at Work: How the Gospel Gives New Purpose and Meaning to Our Jobs. Updated and expanded ed. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 2013, 2018.

This book is a great exposition of the sins of idolatry and idleness in work, and of reasons why to work.

Many practical questions are discussed at length, such as dealing with difficult coworkers and being a boss.

Note: Please verify that the student is obtaining the updated and expanded edition.

Bibliography – Pluralism

DuBois, W. E. B. The Souls of Black Folk. Everyman's Library. Centennial Edition. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 2003 [1903].

W. E. B. DuBois and Booker T. Washington were African-Americans who differed a hundred years ago about how to help the sons of former slaves advance in society. In this book, students will read DuBois's argument for cultural advancement with the goal of immediate and equal respect. It is a great debate.

Alternative Thrift Edition: The Souls of Black Folk.

Gaede, S. D. When Tolerance is No Virtue: Political Correctness, Multiculturalism and the Future of Truth and Justice. Downers Grove, IL: InterVarsity Press, 1993.

The message of this book has been summarized as, "Like loyalty, tolerance is a sham virtue, taking its worth from something else." Possibly. The book is highly readable and instantly engaging. A great introduction for students into the problems and possibilities of tolerance in a pluralistic age.

Harris, Sam. Letter to a Christian Nation. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, Borzoi Book, 2006.

This book is an acidic attack on Christianity from a recent atheist. Before reading this book, students will already have read Mohler's survey and response to the new atheists. It is risky to assign such a book, but it also risky not to assign one. Overall, it is the academy's conviction that it is better to inoculate our children than to over-shelter them; someday they must face these attacks anyways. Please pray for our students to see through this attack. Ironically and wondrously, the Bible itself already addressed many of these attacks in the Old Testament wisdom literature, which proves (again) there is nothing new under the sun.

Hawke, David Freeman. Everyday Life in Early America. Everyday Life in America. New York: Harper & Row, 1988.

Students can be introduced to another culture via both time (history) and place (travel). This book follows the former, showing early America to be "another human universe" (preface). Filled with details, Hawke's book should prepare students well for both how a national culture originates and (more specifically) how racial issues in America originated (chapter nine). Highly recommended.

The Koran. 5th rev. ed. Trans. N. J. Dawood. Penguin Classics. New York: Penguin, 1956, 1959, 1966, 1968, 1974, 1990.

In today's world of aggressive Islam, students should have some familiarity with its lies and distortions of the Bible. Reading firsthand from their alleged "holy" book will help.

Online Resource: Quran. Any English translation will suffice, so please borrow a copy or find it online.

Lewis, C. S. Mere Christianity: A Revised and Amplified Edition, with a New Introduction, of the Three Books. New York: HarperCollins, 2001 [1952].

Outside of the Narnia series, this is Lewis' most famous book and certainly his most famous apologetic book. The book consists of four "books," all of which were originally presented during WWII as radio broadcasts. Lewis was not an ordained theologian—his theology on Scripture and the cross are errant—but he is highly original, thought-provoking, and often quite weighty in his reasons. As an apologist for theism and a critic of human immorality, he is often very strong. Students read the first book and a small portion of the third book, which present two of Lewis' most famous arguments for the existence of God. Perhaps someday we will assign all of this classic, but for now, we can only sample it here and there.

Note: This book is also required for the winter term and for Theology IV.

Machen, J. Gresham. Education, Christianity, and the State. Ed. John W. Robbins. Unicoi, TN: The Trinity Foundation, 1987, 1995, 2004.

During the 1920s, public education threatened to eliminate private education. Machen was summoned as an expert witness for the debates. In this book, students will encounter a refreshingly Christian approach to education that emphasizes the development of the individual before our Creator and Judge.

McLeod, Alexander. Messiah, Governor of the Nations of the Earth. Reprint, New York: Reformed Presbyterian Church, 1992 [1803].

Several years ago a brother in New York City sent me this two-hundred-year-old sermon by a Conventer Presbyterian on why the United States Constitution should have acknowledged the lordship of Jesus Christ. It is a fascinating consideration, showing that the United States was innovatively secular in not acknowledging Jesus, in contrast to the European states, who though godless, yet nonetheless acknowledged Jesus Christ. Therefore, from our perspective historically, the Founders were very Christian; but from the perspective of previous history, they were quite secular. Students should find the assertion of Christ's lordship invigorating, but they should also be wary on how it is applied politically.

Note: This sermon is available free online (just follow the hyperlink above), so please do not purchase an expensive used copy.

Moore, Eva. The Story of George Washington Carver. Scholastic Biography. New York: Scholastic, 1971.

Although this book is written for grade-school children, it will quickly introduce students to the benefits of Booker T. Washington's approach to elevating the African American. Carver was a professor at Washington's Tuskegee Institute in Alabama.

Schirmacher, Christine. The Islamic View of Major Christian Teachings: The Role of Jesus Christ, Sin, Faith, and Forgiveness – Essays. Ed. Ruth Baldwin. Vol. 2, The WEA Global Issues Series. Bonn: Verlag für Kultur und Wissenschaft, 2008.

This collection of essays examines the key differences between Islam and Christianity from a thoroughly evangelical Christian perspective. With short, to-the-point chapters, the book shows clearly that Islam and Christianity do not serve the same God. In examining the differences, students can better grasp what the gospel of Jesus Christ truly teaches. (There is no need to purchase anything, because the resource is free online.)

Washington, Booker T. "Atlanta Exposition Address." In George Grant, ed., The American Patriot's Handbook: The Writings, History, and Spirit of a Free Nation. 2nd ed. Naperville, IL: Sourcebooks, Cumberland House, 2009, 2016, 375-381.

Booker T. Washington and W. E. B. DuBois were African-Americans who differed a hundred years ago about how to help the sons of former slaves advance in society. In this address, students will read about Washington's case for patient hard work earning the respect of white society. It is a great debate.

Note: The hyperlink to the address has not only the text online, but a genuine recording of the first three minutes of Washington's speech—one of the first speeches recorded in American history. If you already own Grant's anthology, which is an assigned text for juniors, the address is also reprinted there in full.

Wilson, Douglas. Letter from a Christian Citizen. Powder Springs, GA: American Vision, 2007.

This book is a Christian response to atheist Sam Harris' Letter to a Christian Nation. Students read Wilson in preparation for reading Harris.

Note: This book is out-of-print, so please do not pay a high price for a used copy.

Yetman, Norman R., ed. Voices from Slavery: 100 Authentic Slave Narratives. Reprint, Mineola, NY: Dover, 2000 [1970, 1972].

During the 1930s, as part of the WPA, several historians took down these oral histories from elderly African-Americans who could remember their days of slavery. Students are often interested in hearing firsthand what slavery was really like in the American South. Experiences were quite varied.

Zacharias, Ravi and Kevin Johnson. Jesus Among Other Gods: The Absolute Claims of the Christian Message - Youth Edition. Nashville: Thomas Nelson, W Publishing, 2000.

Christian apologist Ravi Zacharias grew up in India under a highly pressurized Hindu home environment. This book tells of his own conversion and then describes how Jesus is fundamentally different than the major world religions of Islam, Hinduism, and Buddhism.

Note: Students should obtain the youth edition cited above; however, parents may obtain the original version at Jesus Among Other Gods.

Bibliography – The Doctrine of God

Lewis, C. S. Mere Christianity: A Revised and Amplified Edition, with a New Introduction, of the Three Books. New York: HarperCollins, 2001 [1952].

Perhaps someday we will assign all of this classic, but for now, we can only sample it here and there.

Note: This book is also required for Theology IV.

Müller, George. The Autobiography of George Mueller. New Kensington, PA: Whitaker House, 1984.

Müller knew God personally—his prayer-life and care of orphans achieved fame, even in his lifetime. He started the orphanage for God's name, so that modern Christians would know God still answers prayer. This inexpensive paperback is a fine abridged version of Müller's larger autobiography.

Papa, Matt. Look and Live: Behold the Soul-Thrilling, Sin-Destroying Glory of Christ. Bloomington, MN: Bethany House, 2014.

This book is awesome—so full of the glory of God and so motivating for the pursuit of a greater and clearer vision of that glory! Matt is a musician, so the text breaks all sorts of grammatical rules. It reads like lyrics. A style great for young people! After reading it for a while, you will understand the initial warning by Matt's pastor: "At some point in this book you're probably going to try to run through a wall."

Piper, John. Desiring God: Meditations of a Christian Hedonist. Rev. ed. Sisters, OR: Multnomah, 1986, 1996, 2003, 2011.

The author is perhaps the most significant evangelical preacher of our day, certainly one of the most provocative and God-centered. His philosophy of Christian hedonism has influenced an entire generation of Reformed-minded preachers. Although not without fault, the vision of this book should generate a thirst for God and His glory.

Reeves, Michael. Delighting in the Trinity: An Introduction to the Christian Faith. Downers Grove, IL: InterVarsity, 2012.

This delightful book combines humor and engaging prose in presenting the grandest of all truths—the triune nature of the one living God. Students should find this book captivating.

Sproul, R. C. The Holiness of God. 2nd ed. Wheaton, IL: Tyndale House, 1985, 1998.

This book is Sproul's signature work, vividly portraying the Gospel from the aspect of God's holiness. Sproul's anecdotal way of relating theology should appeal to students. If successful, this book should engender a proper fear of God, which is the beginning of wisdom.

Tozer, A. W. The Pursuit of God: The Human Thirst for the Divine. Camp Hill, PA: WingSpread Publishers, 2006 [1948].

Tozer was an evangelical mystic, having no formal Bible training but a deep thirst for God's presence. His vision presented a stark contrast to his contemporaries' mechanical, formulaic approach to holiness. Although he downplays the role of formal theology, Tozer offers a rigorously theological and intensely personal pursuit of God.

Wesley, John. "Free Grace." Sermon 128 in The Works of John Wesley, ed. Thomas Jackson (reprint, Grand Rapids: Zondervan, n. d. [1872]).

This online reprint of Wesley's controversial sermon against divine election allows students to hear for themselves the famous debate between the two Methodist leaders of the evangelical revivals in England.

Whitefield, George. Whitefield's Letter to Wesley on Election. Reprint, Pensacola, FL: Chapel Library, n. d. [1740].

This online resource reprints the published response of George Whitefield to John Wesley's Arminian sermon entitled "Free Grace." In this letter, we see how the famous evangelist reconciled the truth of God's unconditional election with his own free offer of the Gospel to all sinners.

Bibliography – Personal Finances

Alcorn, Randy. Money, Possessions, and Eternity. Rev. ed. Wheaton, IL: Tyndale House, 1989, 2003.

This textbook is an exhaustive treatment of the topic of money from a biblical perspective. The author is uniquely qualified to write on the topic of money. Having spent some time fighting abortion, he was hit with a multimillion-dollar lawsuit, for which he had to relinquish all private property! His overall aim is to foster an eternal perspective among Christians—the same goal as his book Heaven. Students should appreciate that the discussions are both detailed and down-to-earth.

Alcorn, Randy. The Treasure Principle: Discovering the Secret of Joyful Giving. LifeChange Books. Sisters, OR: Multnomah, 2001.

Written by the same author as the course textbook, this little popular book will introduce the topic of money well.

Burkett, Larry. The Complete Financial Guide for Young Couples: A Lifetime Approach to Spending, Saving, and Investing. Wheaton, IL: Victor Books, 1989, 1993.

This highly-experienced Christian financial counselor offers sound advice to young adults on finances. Students should be amazed by his real-life stories of individuals having trouble with personal finances.

Edwards, Jonathan. Christian Charity: or, the Duty of Charity to the Poor, Explained and Enforced. In The Works of Jonathan Edwards. 2 vols. Ed. Edward Hickman. Reprint, Carlisle, PA: Banner of Truth Trust, 1974 [1834], 2:163-173.

This 18th-century preacher is perhaps America's premiere evangelical theologian. Written from a pastoral perspective, this work presents the biblical case of Christians caring for the poor. This copy should be available online as part of his collective works.

Bibliography – Social Order

Gamble, Richard. "Gettysburg Gospel." The American Conservative (November 14, 2013).

A short, but incisive critique of this portion of "American Scripture" in light of history and the gospel.

Guelzo, Allen C. Lincoln and Douglas: The Debates That Defined America. New York: Simon & Schuster, 2008.

This top-notch Lincoln scholar retells the famous debates of 1858 between Senator Stephen Douglas and his upstart rival Abraham Lincoln. In tracing these debates, students will hear the reasonings behind both popular sovereignty and Lincoln's absolutism. As a side benefit, students will also taste the bitterness of a real political campaign.

Kasher, Steven. The Civil Rights Movement: A Photographic History, 1954-68. New York: Abbeville Press, 1996.

Largely a sequence of photographs, as the subtitle says, this book accurately portrays the image America received of the civil rights movement in the South. Students will be faced with some hard realities on both sides of the issue.

Maier, Pauline. American Scripture: Making the Declaration of Independence. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1997.

Extremely detailed, this fascinating book describes both the genesis and evolution of the Declaration of Independence. At first simply a political document—literally, a public declaration of independence—it became in time a creedal statement, an authority for political philosophy, and even an object of worship. Fascinating metamorphosis! Students will read the beginning and end of this tale.

McMillen, Sally G. Seneca Falls and the Origins of the Women's Rights Movement. Pivotal Moments in American History. New York: Oxford University Press, 2008.

This excellent history of the women's rights movement traces the parallel careers of four leading women of the nineteenth century—Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Lucretia Mott, Lucy Stone, and Susan B. Anthony. Students will focus on the cultural background of the movement and its beginnings at Seneca Falls (1848). Neither the culture nor the goals of the movement align with Scripture.

Olasky, Marvin. The American Leadership Tradition. New York: Simon & Schuster, The Free Press, 1999.

The author, a leading Christian journalist and historian, presents portraits of twelve American leaders (mainly presidents) in order to show that a man's private life influences his public leadership. The two cannot be separated, so everything is fair game in assessing qualifications for leadership.

To Kill a Mockingbird. DVD (1962)

Based on Harper Lee's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, this engaging story features a Southern lawyer defending an African-American framed for rape. The drama is intense and the acting superb. Gregory Peck received an academy award for his performance. No student should be unfamiliar with this dramatic portrayal of Southern injustice.

Bibliography – The History of Redemption

Cross, John R. The Stranger on the Road to Emmaus. 4th ed. Olds, Alberta, Canada: GoodSeed International, 2009.

The Old Testament has many themes. This book traces the theme of redemption from the beginning to fulfillment in Christ. The author used to be a New Tribes missionary and this book exhibits their chronological approach to preaching Christ.

Goldsworthy, Graeme. Gospel and Kingdom. Crownhill, MK: Paternoster, 1981, 2012.

The Old Testament has many themes. This book traces the theme of the kingdom from the beginning to fulfillment in Christ. This book has become a model for presenting the big picture of the Bible in an understandable way.

Handel, G. F. The Messiah. Audio recording.

This classic oratorio from the 18th century audibly portrays messianic passages from Scripture. Students should stand when the “Hallelujah” chorus is played—even the British king stood at this point.

McClain, Alva J. Law and Grace: A Study of New Testament Concepts as They Relate to the Christian Life. Reprint, Winona Lake, IN: BMH Books, 1973 [1954].

This dispensational perspective may not be entirely accurate, but it brings up the necessary questions about the nature of the Law (unified or not?) and its role in the Christian life (normative or not?). Succinct discussion-starter.

Meldau, Fred John. The Prophets Still Speak: Messiah in Both Testaments. Rev. ed. Amy L. Julian. Bellmawr, NJ: The Friends of Israel Gospel Ministry, 1956, 1988.

This book is juicy, Bible doctrine. Scriptures are given without much comment, but the connections are made again and again between the Old Testament prophecies and their fulfillment in Christ Jesus. The gospel is awesome!

Piper, John, ed. God’s Passion for His Glory: Living the Vision of Jonathan Edwards with the Complete Text of “The End for which God Created the World” by Jonathan Edwards. Wheaton, IL: Crossway, 1998.

Among the writings of Jonathan Edwards, the posthumously-published dissertation on The End for which God Created the World may be his most significant contribution to theology. In it, he argues that God’s commitment to His glory and His commitment to His people are actually the same commitment. As a result, there is no conflict between God’s glory and our good. It is a revolutionary vision, supported by many texts. Because of its importance, Piper published this edited version and added a lengthy introduction. Students will be challenged by the philosophical style of the argument, but the argument is worth the intellectual effort.

Scofield, C. I. Rightly Dividing the Word of Truth \(2 Tim. 2:15\): Ten Outline Studies of the More Important Divisions of Scripture. 2nd ed. Philadelphia: Philadelphia School of the Bible, 1923.

This representative text of classic dispensationalism shows the binary nature of its thinking—items of theology are treated as polar opposites, in mutually-exclusive categories. While simplifying things, this mode of thinking distorts some aspects of theology and preserves others. Students will be exercised in discerning the difference.

Online Resource: Rightly Dividing the Word of Truth.

The “God’s Story” Project. Audio Recording.

This 80-minute recording presents the entire story of the Bible evangelistically. Students should enjoy this audio presentation of the “big picture” of the Bible.

Note: Click on the “English” option for the audio download.

Vos, Geerhardos. The Idea of Biblical Theology as a Science and as a Theological Discipline. New York: Anson D. F. Randolph, 1894.

This inaugural address of the Dutch scholar as professor at Princeton Seminary is a seminal address in biblical theology from within Reformed Christianity and its covenant theology.

Bibliography – Marriage

Chapman, Gary D. Things I Wish I'd Known Before I Got Married. Chicago: Moody, 2010.

The author, a veteran marriage counselor, offers straight-forward and practical premarital advice. Teens should become aware of the many issues facing a young couple about to be married.

Girgis, Sherif, Ryan T. Anderson, and Robert P. George. What Is Marriage? Man and Woman: A Defense. New York: Encounter Books, 2012.

This philosophical book offers perhaps the best secular argument for a traditional view of marriage. Surprisingly, the book argues that the cultural elevation of marriage as the ideal relationship has distorted not only marriage itself, but also friendship.

Graf, Sherry. I Don't Get You: A Guide to Healthy Conversations. Colorado Springs: NavPress, 2016.

The author warns that emotional intimacy often leads to physical intimacy and that both outside of marriage are forms of impurity. Both singles and married individuals need to heed this book and create healthy boundaries in communication with the opposite sex. (This booklet was formerly called How to Talk to Women: Why It Gets Awkward, How to Talk to Men: Why We Emotionally Attach.)

Note: The academy plans to provide a copy of this booklet for students to borrow.

McQuilkin, J. Robertson. A Promise Kept. Carol Stream, IL: Tyndale House, 1998, 2006.

In this moving story, theologian and author J. Robertson McQuilkin describes the love and care he has for his wife Muriel, whose Alzheimer's in her mid-50s led to his voluntary retirement from public life. Very inspiring!

Torode, Sam & Bethany. Open Embrace: A Protestant Couple Rethinks Contraception. Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 2002.

Although this booklet represents a passing phase in the Torodes' development, the argument for natural family planning is worth considering, especially as an alternative to the cultural norm of less and less children. In these reprinted blogs, the authors rely too much on Roman Catholic thought, so students should be made aware of this slanted perspective.

Note: Parents should be aware that this book has some specific biological information. If any family does not approve, students can be exempted from this assignment.

Wales, Susan, and Ann Platz. A Match Made in Heaven: A Collection of Inspirational Love Stories. Sisters, OR: Multnomah, 1999.

In this collection of love stories, students can reflect upon the true nature of romantic love and draw some helpful tips for the future.

Wilson, Douglas J. Reforming Marriage. Moscow, ID: Canon Press, 1995.

Although quite opinionated, Wilson has given a straight-forward argument for male leadership in marriage. Whether the man wants to be or not, he is the head of the marriage; and whether he actively leads or abdicates his responsibilities, his behavior sets the tone for his marriage—for the good or for the bad. Young men should come away from this book with a renewed sense of the fear of God and the weight of being a husband.

Write an appreciation of the parenting in your home.
Week 10	Guarantees, Grace, and Generations	Final Exam

Bibliography – The Gift of Language

Brown, Paul E. Understanding and Enjoying the Bible. Leominster, UK: Day One, 2005.

This straightforward book on interpreting the Bible came with strong recommendations from a friend and uses Psalm 23 for demonstration.

Caputo, John D. What Would Jesus Deconstruct? The Good News of Postmodernism for the Church. The Church and Postmodern Culture. Grand Rapids: Baker Academics, 2007.

This supposedly-Christian book illustrates well the postmodern perspective infiltrating the church. By reading this in the context of truth, students will gain a firsthand interaction with a postmodern advocate.

Gilson, Etienne. Reason and Revelation in the Middle Ages. Reprint, Eugene, OR: Wipf and Stock, 1998.

This little book is a model of concision. In three lectures, Gilson captures the flow of philosophy from early Christianity to Thomas Aquinas, who allegedly strikes the right balance between nature and grace. (In philosophy, the academy favors Augustine over Aquinas.)

Note: This book is out-of-print. Please find a used copy, but do not buy an expensive one.

Haydn, Franz Joseph. Symphony No. 45 in F-sharp minor \(“Farewell Symphony”\). [1772]

This symphony is a fascinating study in how form communicates. The prince has kept Haydn and the musicians away from their families, so the composer communicates through this symphony that it is time to go home—and the prince understood the message!

Alternate Edition: Celenza, Anna Harwell. The Farewell Symphony. Once Upon a Masterpiece. Watertown, MA: Talewinds, Charlesbridge, 2000. This children’s book tells the story and provides a CD of this symphony.

Honeysett, Marcus. Meltdown: Making Sense of a Culture in Crisis. Grand Rapids: Kregel, 2002.

D. A. Carson recommended this book for his own children—with one in college and the other in high school. Very readable, this book provides a basis for understanding several strains and traits of postmodernism.

Leadership Resources International. Dig and Discover Hermeneutical Principles: The Core Principles. 3rd ed. Palos Heights, IL: Leadership Resources International, 2018.

Note: This booklet was assigned and used in Theology I class.

Alternate Online Edition: Dig and Discover Hermeneutical Principles. The ministry encourages Americans to purchase the hardcover booklets as ministry support.

Pearcey, Nancy. Saving Leonardo: A Call to Resist the Secular Assault on Mind, Morals, & Meaning. Nashville: B&H Publishing, 2010.

This book is a rare find—an excellent Christian textbook for art appreciation. Based on a worldview that unifies faith and knowledge, the book critiques modern thought through its art. Students should enjoy the discussion, the examples, and the high-quality photographs in this text.

Stravinsky, Igor. The Rite of Spring. [1913]

This pagan ballet ushered in the modern era of “classical” music—a composition with no melody that nearly started a riot when it was first performed in Paris!

Note: This site downloads the music for free and does not appear to be pirating, but proceed at your own risk.

Bibliography – Salvation

Calvin, John and Jacopo Sadoletto. A Reformation Debate: Sadoletto's Letter to the Genevans and Calvin's Reply. Ed. John C. Olin. Grand Rapids: Baker, 1976 [1966].

The appendix to this volume contains opposing Catholic and Protestant views on justification. The Catholic view comes from the Council of Trent, and the Protestant view comes from John Calvin. The sacramental character of the Catholic view of salvation comes out strongly in this primary source.

Hodge, Charles. The Way of Life. Reprint, Minneapolis: Curiosmith, 2016 [1841].

Originally written for the American Sunday School Union, this book summarizes doctrine for laypeople. Hodge gives a clear and powerful presentation on faith and the Bible's evidence of inspiration.

Lewis, C. S. Mere Christianity: A Revised and Amplified Edition, with a New Introduction, of the Three Books. New York: HarperCollins, 2001 [1952].

Outside of the Narnia series, this is Lewis' most famous book and certainly his most famous apologetic book. The book consists of four "books," all of which were originally presented during WWII as radio broadcasts. Lewis was not an ordained theologian—his theology on Scripture and the cross are errant—but he is highly original, thought-provoking, and often quite weighty in his reasons. As an apologist for theism and a critic of human immorality, he is often very strong. Students read and critique the second book. Perhaps someday we will assign all of this classic, but for now, we can only sample it here and there.

Note: This book is also required for Theology II.

Lewis, C. S. "The Weight of Glory." Theology (November 1941).

This sermon defined for Lewis his goal for all of life—obtaining glory from God. Concepts from this sermon (and other writings of Lewis) appear to have been formative in John Piper's reassessment of worship and reward. Due to the sermon's significance in representing Lewis' theology, students also read it in Humanities II.

Note: Do not purchase or read the collection of essays by the same name. The link provides an online pdf, which may be legal, if the source is not American.

Alternate Edition: Lewis, C. S. "The Weight of Glory." In idem, The Weight of Glory: And Other Addresses (New York: HarperCollins, 1949): 25-46.

Malone, Fred A. A String of Pearls Unstrung: A Theological Journey into Believers' Baptism. Cape Coral, FL: Founders Press, 1998.

Written by a former Presbyterian, this booklet dismantles the covenant argument for infant baptism. Coupled with Strawbridge, students are able to hear both sides of the baptism debate. The complete text of this booklet used to be found online for free, but now is unavailable.

Note: This out-of-print book may be impossible to find. Please do not buy an expensive copy. The author expanded his argument into a full-length book The Baptism of Disciples Alone, which is not required material.

McClay, Wilfrid M. "The Strange Persistence of Guilt." The Hedgehog Review 19 (Spring 2017): online article.

This insightful article reviews how in odd ways members of our culture wish to identify themselves as victims. As pointed out in an article by Janie Cheaney on "Sorry Day" in Australia, the West lives with the conscience of Christianity, but has denied the resolution of Christianity in the atonement. As a result, guilty individuals are seeking shelter from responsibility through the identity of victimhood. As the book of Job warns, however, victimhood easily slips into irreverence and self-righteousness. This article makes a culturally-relevant introduction to the gospel.

Ryle, J. C. Holiness: Its Nature, Hindrances, Difficulties, and Roots. Rev. ed. Reprint, Moscow, ID: Charles Nolan, 2001 [1877, 1879].

Ryle is engaging—a writer who makes plain, bold statements, and who applies the truth with force. Students will appreciate his bold, energetic style, and the relevance of his topic—personal holiness. Although written over a century ago, the issues he discusses still resonate today, in today's debates.

Spurgeon, C. H. All of Grace. Moody Classics. Chicago: Moody, 2010 [1894].

In this little book, the British “prince of preachers” calls sinners to repent and believe in Christ. If you love the gospel, or are longing to be saved, this earnest little book should delight your soul.

Alternative Edition: Spurgeon, C. H. All of Grace: An Earnest Word with Those Who Are Seeking Salvation by the Lord Jesus Christ. Reprint, Pasadena, TX: Pilgrim Publications, 1978 [1894].

Spurgeon, C. H. “Baptismal Regeneration” Sermon. Reprint, Pensacola, FL: Chapel Library [1864].

In this sermon, Spurgeon calls on evangelical Anglicans (like Ryle) to be consistent in the area of baptism. Controversial, the sermon will give students a feel for the gravity of the sacramentalism debate.

Stott, John R. W. Basic Christianity. Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1958.

Stott gives a straight-forward presentation of the gospel in this book written for college students. Although the style is dry, the content is full, leading some students to appreciate the wealth of data. One chief merit of this book is its focus on the person of Christ, not merely on our salvation.

Strawbridge, Gregg. Baptism in the Bible and Infant Baptism. Brownstown, PA: WordMp3.com, 2006, 2015.

This Pennsylvania Presbyterian pastor gives a reasoned defense of infant baptism. This book gives a good basis for Malone’s response to the covenantal paedobaptist position.

Strawbridge, Gregg. A Critical Review of A String of Pearls Unstrung. Online document.

This is a direct response to Malone’s credobaptist booklet.

Bibliography – Parenting

Harris, Gregg. The Christian Home School. 2nd ed. Gresham, OR: Noble Publishing, 1988, 1995.

Harris was an early leader in the homeschool movement. His philosophy of home education is comprehensive and stimulating. He is the father of seven children, including authors Joshua Harris, who wrote I Kissed Dating Goodbye, and Alex and Brett Harris, who wrote Do Hard Things. Given his son Joshua's recent failures, is there any element in the father's approach that would lend itself to failure? What should we be cautious about in the twins' book Do Hard Things? Together, these three books make an excellent experimental study for insights. Lord, teach us Your ways!

Note: Gregg Harris blogs at Home Educators of Washington.

Harris, Joshua. I Kissed Dating Goodbye. 2nd ed. Sisters, OR: Multnomah, 1997, 2003.

This popular book caused many teens to rethink their perspective and expectations regarding dating. Because it was written by a teen for teens, it will provoke thought and a response in the students. We are reading it in parenting class because setting dating expectations is a big part of raising teens. Students will also read recent reevaluations by the author and by others affected by the book. As in all counsel, simplistic solutions have both benefits and dangers.

Lee, Sophia. "Kisses of Regret." WORLD (February 17, 2018): 40-43; and idem, "Hindsight and Hope." WORLD (February 17, 2018): 44-45).

These twin articles describe Joshua Harris' initial steps in succumbing to the cultural pressure of guilt. May the Lord spare his soul and bring him back to strong and confessing faith in Christ Jesus!

Leithart, Peter. Wise Words: Family Stories That Bring the Proverbs to Life. Elkton, MD: Holly Hall, 1995.

This book of Christian fairy tales is simply a delight and has been a favorite of the Snyder household. Loosely based on a proverb, the fairy tales incorporate many themes of biblical theology. This book fits well with Gregg Harris' encouragement to take time for storytelling.

Marcellino, Jerry. Rediscovering Family Worship. Wapwallopen, PA: Shepherds Press, n. d. [1996, 2002].

In this booklet, Pastor Marcellino describes the three elements of family devotions—song, Scripture, and supplication.

Murray, John. The Fear of God: The Soul of Godliness. Reprint, Birmingham: Solid Ground Christian Books, n. d. [1957].

This booklet is the first chapter of Professor Murray's book on ethics, The Principles of Conduct. Spiritually-sensitive readers should come away from this book more awed at God's majesty.

Naselli, Andrew David and J. D. Crowley. Conscience: What It Is, How to Train It, and Loving Those Who Differ. Wheaton, IL: Crossway, 2016.

This superb book starts out simple—cataloging every place in the New Testament where conscience is mentioned—but ends with surprising strength and insights. Students should learn how to differentiate their conscience from both others and the word of God. Training a conscience with sensitivity is very important in parenting, especially during the teen years.

Ray, Bruce A. Withhold Not Correction. Phillipsburg, NJ: Presbyterian & Reformed Publishing, 1978.

Pastor Ray gives exposition and application regarding the biblical verses on training children.

Tripp, Tedd. Shepherding a Child's Heart. 2nd ed. Wapwallopen, PA: Shepherd Press, 1995, 2005.

This book has become the standard book on parenting for many churches with Reformed theology. Tedd Tripp is the brother to popular counselor and author Paul Tripp.
